Help the Masts!

The Mast family's incredible story of courage, faith, and fortitude started when they rescued a wounded infant in Afghanistan. They fought to bring the child to the United States, but they are now embroiled in legal battles to keep her safe.

The Pipe Hitter Foundation is stepping up to support this brave Marine and his family and is asking for your help with a generous donation to help pay for their $100,000 in legal bills.

Let's help this Marine keep his family together and give this child a chance at a better life. Please consider donating today to help the Mast family. pipe_hitter_foundation Pipe Hitter Family, please take a moment to learn more about one of our newest grantees, the Mast family, whose story is one of courage, faith, and fortitude.

It all began in September 2019 when Army Rangers with 1st Bn, 75th Ranger Regiment, carried out a mission against a nest of Al Qaeda foreign fighters in Afghanistan. During a brutal close-quarter fight, the Rangers recovered a wounded infant. The baby's father Miraculously, the estimated six-week-old infant survived the blast but was seriously injured. Major Joshua Mast met the baby at Craig Joint Theatre Hospital and, like many of the Americans caring for her, felt called by God to help protect her innocent life. With permission from his Chain of Command, the support of the Office of the Vice President, and the help of his brother attorney Richard Mast, the Masts worked to create a path to safety and care available in the United States for the baby girl, code named "Starfish." They started guardianship and then temporary adoption procedures in a Virginia court to give the child a legal identity in order to apply for a visa, and eventually provide a home for her.

What happened next will truly have you question how is

A high-ranking embassy official intervened and dumped the child in Afghanistan two days before the "peace" deal with the Taliban was announced. The Mast's located the child, and they were able to finalize the US adoption to create a path to the US for her amidst the troop withdrawal in Afghanistan. They secured her safe evacuation to the United States, but she became a political football amidst the botched withdrawal in Afghanistan and fodder for negotiations between the Department of State and the Taliban.

We need to help this Marine keep his family together. The Pipe Hitter Foundation is joining the Masts in their righteous fight. We are stepping up to support this brave Marine and his family who have made incredible sacrifices to provide this child a life in the United States.
